Any recommendations on a great prototyping tool to use while creating your product management portfolio?

Have you two considered creating a new course for Advanced PMs? One of the things I don't get enough exposure of yet and would like to learn more about is the different tools/apps that PMs use to measure, report and present metrics. Real World Scenarios.

Chapter 5 activity: What wunderlist should do
Increase user base is top my list, since Microsoft acquired it, let's see how many users will converted to wunderlist. Meanwhile, we need to keep an eye on user growth vs. revenue.
Wunderlist is the most expensive product among all, which doesn't have all the features its competitors have. I don't believe the more the better, but Id like to dig out what current users feedback/complain.
1. To me, public sharing and images are 2 survival features to be included in both free and paid version, we can't count on everybody in the same pool of integrated platforms, such as twitter, sunrise, slack, etc,.. It may not that important for current users, there are people out there adopting these features.

psst. It looks like this

“Slack is a free and easy-to-use chatroom”

It works on:

Hello, I'm a tech entrepreneur (actually a product artist) who can code, design and do digital marketing single handedly. Built 3 web products with 10k+ MAUs each with little/no marketing budget. The problem I'm facing is that I get disinterested in the product after sometime cuz either it's not making (serious) money or I'm not using them much. So, I'm working to build a 4th product which I'd use myself a lot. 😃

Hey @channel ,

I'm Christos Zeus Stavrou a design driven human being in Cologne, Germany.
Experienced with a wide selection of graphic and digital design projects.

I enjoy to turn complex problems into simple solutions, beautiful and intuitive designs no matter what medium I'm working with.

I do the work because I love it. I like the people I meet and I like to make the environment a better place. Hopefully we cross paths in future and make it a beautiful place together.

Design is a career of self discovery. Epic moments. Doubt. Confidence. Reflection. It's never done.

Don't hesitate to contact me I speak German, English and Greek.

FAQ:

Can I still post in the Udemy Q&A?

Absolutely. I'm just a little slower to respond there because I don't get notifications of new posts. You don't have to sign up for Slack at all if you don't want to

How do I use Slack once I've joined?

Here is a really good guide on the basics:

(click me)

I don't want to download anything

You can just use it like any other website and access it through your web browser

Why did you create Slack community for your students?

For a lot of reasons.

First, I can respond and actually converse with you in Slack. You can't really do that in Udemy.

Second, so you can talk to each other, answer each other's questions, and learn together.

I've found that when there is a community around a topic of learning, the people that really engage get way more out of it vs a standard "watch a video, next video" experience
